WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY.

LATEST and most complete edition. Price reduced. In two large octavo volumes, in full leather, twelve dollars; being the most full and comprehensive edition issued, and containing much more matter than the original edition, which was issued (unbound) for twenty-five dollars. For sale by the publishers by F. TAYLOR.

From Chancellor Kent's Essay on the author. "The American Dictionary of the English Language, is a work of profound investigation, and does infinite honor to the philological learning and general literature of this country. Happy the man who can thus honorably identify his name with the existence of our vernacular tongue. There is no other way in which mortal man could more effectually secure himself against the attacks of oblivion, and triumph over the ravages of time. No work of art can withstand the incessant strokes of time. The unrivaled Parthenon, glowing in polished marble, and which, for more than two thousand years continued from the summit of the citadel of Athens to cast its broad splendor across the plains below, and along the coast and headlands of Attica, is now crumbling to ruins, after being despoiled of its most exquisite materials by savage war and heartless man. Even the Pyramids of Egypt, whose origin is hidden in the deepest recesses of antiquity, and which have always been in a state of ruin, and are now being gradually sinking under the encroaching sands of the desert. This dictionary, and the language which it embodies will also perish; but it will not be with the gorgeous palaces. It will go with the solemn temples and the great globe itself."

The Publishers of the foregoing work respectfully announce that they have made arrangements with Mr. F. Taylor, Bookseller, of Washington city, to furnish the American Dictionary, in two large volumes, at the very reduced price of twelve dollars. It is to be understood that for this price the best paper and type, and the best binding will be supplied—the best copies, that is to say, in all respects.

The very valuable supplement, which is contained in no other edition than the present one, should not be passed unnoticed; it contains four thousand words, not given in any other dictionary, was only completed by Dr. Webster in 1843, immediately before his death, and is considered by the public to be the best dictionary in the world.

VOL. IV. WASHINGTON CITY, WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 12, 1845. NO. 998.

MISS HEANEY'S ACADEMY.

1 street, opposite President's Square, Washington.

In the residences of Mrs. Gen. Macomb and the Hon. John Y. Mason, Secretary of the Navy.

MISS HEANEY, of Boston, Massachusetts, principal instructor, respectfully gives notice to parents and guardians of her removing the education of Young Ladies in this city in the former family residence of Col. Bonford, according to her early purposes of educating boarding pupils as a family with a convenient number of day scholars. Her own personal instruction and care being given to each of her pupils individually in whatever pursuits of learning or accomplishments they may engage. Assistant instructors will be resident in her family, and exclusively engaged to aid her responsibility as professor in this charge. One of the most skillful in Vocal and Instrumental Music will always be so engaged; other professors will attend to give lessons, as may be required, but only with her own attention to her pupils as principal. The many years occupancy of this place by Col. Bonford's family evinces healthfulness of the situation, well, and its spaciousness, pleasant garden, and scenery, make it the most desirable dwelling for such students in the vicinity of the President's House and the Departments.

MISS HEANEY'S Academy being so eligibly placed in the quiet neighborhood of many well-known families, greatly encourages the favor her task bespeaks of parents and guardians to sustain a permanent institution of the most faithful and liberal instruction. The regulations and order prescribed in it being simply such as are due to secure the entire welfare of daughters under maternal direction at home.

Morning Exercises of Instruction.—The use of English and French Text Books alternately, in her method formerly pursued in this city, and since by herself, in reading, elocution, grammar, geography, history, arithmetic, &c. Composition and Belles Lettres in both languages.

Afternoon Exercises.—Drawing and Painting in crayon, water, and oil colors; Music, Needlework in its various uses of domestic use and ornament; Dancing, &c., taught by ladies, and practised at recreations of the school and family. Young ladies of the Senior Class may have instruction for any acquisitions exclusively desired of the usual course, and in the Italian or other languages.

David A. Hall, Esq., may be addressed, for the testimonials of early and recent date of Miss Heaney's engagements as principal instructor in the education of young ladies, in the writing of most of the following references, viz:

Hon. Edward Everett, James Savage, Robert G. Shaw, Rich'd Sullivan, Boston; General J. A. Dix, Albany; Orestes Dewey, D. D., William C. Bryant, Hon. William Emerson, Carville & Co., S. Colman, G. F. Berteau, Thos. Nesmith, Col. Nathan Barrett, New York; Hon. Philemon Dickerson, Patterson, New Jersey; Joseph R. Chandler, Philadelphia; Hon. Louis McLane, and N. F. Williams, Baltimore; Col. J. B. Communications, free of postage, addressed to the Hon. Charles S. Wallach, Esq., will be greatly obliged her.

Charges, moderate in any respect, will be payable in advance, semi-annually, or any term engaged.
